SEVERAL FATAL CASES IN TOLEDO, OHIO.

[Special Dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.]

Toledo, O., June 21.—About eight weeks ago a German laborer, named Eilers, living in this city, bought a couple of pounds of sausage, which he took home. They were rarely cooked the next morning and eaten at breakfast. The next day Eilers was seized with peculiar symptoms which culminated in a violent diarrhea and vomiting, lasting about twenty-four hours. His wife and two children were also attacked with pains. Physicians were summoned, who pronounced the trouble with Mrs. Eilers and the children rheumatism, and treated them for that. Other physicians were called in who diagnosed the disease correctly. Five weeks after the attack one of the children, a boy aged three years, died, in great agony. Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Eilers died, and a microscopic examination made yesterday of portions of flesh taken from the lungs, limbs, and other parts of the body, revealed the fact that the whole system swarmed with trichina. In lumps of flesh no larger than a pin-head were found from fifteen to twenty of the encysted parasites. The other child is not dead yet, but lies in a very critical condition. It is supposed that Eilers' life was saved by the vigorous purging and vomiting which he underwent. The case is exciting much interest in the medical profession here, and specimens of the infected flesh have been sent abroad to medical colleges and prominent physicians.

THE FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM.

We present our readers with the correspondence between President Grant and Senator Jones, of Nevada, containing the "memorandum" which has excited so much comment at the East.

United States Senate Chamber,
Washington, June 4, 1874.

To the President: I was so deeply impressed by the clearness and wisdom of the financial views (some of which you had fortunately reduced to writing) recently expressed by you in a conversation in which I had the honor, with a few others, to be a participant, that I cannot dismiss them from my mind. The great diversity of ideas throughout the country upon this subject, and the fact that public opinion concerning the same is still in process of formation, lead me to believe that the publication of these views would be productive of great good. I venture, therefore, to request of you that I may have a copy of the written memorandum to which I have alluded, with your permission that it may be made public.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant, JOHN P. JONES.

Executive Mansion,
Washington, D. C., June 4, 1874.

Hon. J. P. Jones, United States Senate—Dear Sir: Your note of this date, requesting a copy of a memorandum which I had prepared, expressive of my views upon the financial question, and which you, with others, had heard read, is received, but at too late an hour to comply to-night. I will, however, take great pleasure in furnishing you a copy in the morning, as soon as I can have it copied.

It is proper that I should state that these views were reduced to writing, because I had been consulted on this question, not only by some members of the Conference Committee, but by many other members of Congress. To avoid any and all possibility of misunderstanding, I deemed this course both justifiable and proper.

With this explanation I enclose you herewith the memorandum referred to.

Very respectfully, U. S. GRANT.

MEMORANDUM OF VIEWS

Entertained on the subject of desirable legislation on finance:

I believe it a high and plain duty to return to a specie basis at the earliest practicable day, not only in compliance with legislative and party pledges, but as a step indispensable to national lasting prosperity. I believe further that the time has come when this can be done, or at least begun, with less embarrassment to every branch of industry than at any future time, after resort has been had to unstable and temporary expedients to stimulate unreal prosperity and speculation on bases other than coin, the recognized medium of exchange throughout the commercial world. The particular mode selected to bring about a restoration of the specie standard is not of so much consequence as that some adequate plan be devised, the time fixed when currency shall be changed for coin at par, and the plan adopted rigidly adhered to.

It is not probable that any legislation suggested by me would prove acceptable to both branches of Congress, and indeed full discussion might shake my own faith in the details of any plan I might propose. I will, however, venture to state the general features of the action which seems to me advisable on the financial platform on which I would stand, any departure from which would be in a spirit of concession and harmony in deference to conflicting opinions.

First. I would like to see the "legal-tender clause," so called, repealed, the repeal to take effect at a future time, say July 1, 1875. This would cause all contracts made after the date for wages, sale, &c., to be estimated in coin. It would correct our notions of values. The specie dollar would be the only dollar known as the measure of equivalents. When debts afterward contracted were paid in currency, instead of calling the paper dollar a dollar, and quoting gold at so much premium, we should think and speak of paper as at so much discount. This alone would aid greatly in bringing the two currencies nearer together at par.

Second. I would like to see a provision that at a fixed day, say July 1, 1876, the currency issued by the United States

SHOULD BE REDEEMED

In coin on presentation to any Assistant Treasurer, and that all currency so redeemed should be canceled and never be reissued. To effect this it would be necessary to authorize the issue of bonds payable in gold, bearing such interest as would command par in gold, to be put out by the Treasury only in such sums as should from time to time be needed for the purpose of redemption. Such legislation would insure a return to sound financial principles in two years, and would, in my judgment, work less hardship to the debtor interest than is likely to come from putting off the day of final reckoning. It must be borne in mind, too, that the creditor interest had its day of disadvantage also, when our present financial system was brought in by the supreme needs of the nation at the time.

I would further provide that, from and after the date fixed for redemption, no bill, whether of National Banks, or of the United States, returned to the Treasury to be exchanged for new bills, should be replaced by bills of less denomination than ten dollars, and that, in one year after resumption, all bills of less than five dollars

SHOULD BE WITHDRAWN

From circulation, and in two years all bills of less than ten dollars should be withdrawn. The advantage of this would be strength given to the country against time of depression, resulting from war, failures of crops, or any other cause, by keeping always in the hands of the people a large supply of the precious metals. With all smaller transactions conducted in coin many millions of it would be kept in constant use, and, of course, prevented from leaving the country. Undoubtedly a poorer currency will always drive the better out of circulation. With paper a legal tender, and at a discount, gold and silver become articles of merchandise as much as wheat or cotton. The surplus will find the best market it can.

With small bills in circulation there is no use for coin except to keep it in the vaults of banks to redeem circulation. During periods of great speculation and apparent prosperity there is little demand for coin, and then it will flow out to a market where it can be made to earn something, which it can not do while lying idle.

Gold, like anything else, when not needed, becomes a surplus, and, like every other surplus, it seeks a market where it can find one. By giving active employment to coin, however, its presence can, it seems to me, be secured, and the panics and depression which have occurred periodically in times of nominal specie payments, if they can not be wholly prevented, can at least be greatly mitigated. Indeed, I question whether it would have been found necessary to depart from the standard of specie in the trying day which gave birth to the first legal tender act, had the country taken the ground of "no small bills" as early as 1850.

Again, I would provide an excess of revenue over current expenditures; I would do this by rigid economy, and by taxation where taxation can best be borne. Increased revenue would work a constant reduction of debt and interest, and would provide coin to meet the demands on the Treasury for the resumption of its notes, thereby diminishing the amount of bonds needed for that purpose. All taxes, after resumption begins, should be paid in coin or United States notes. This would force redemption on the national banks

With measures like these, or measures which would work out such results, I see no danger in authorizing free banking without limit.

The Contract with Little Brown & Co.—A dispatch from Washington of June 16 says: At the evening session of the House to-night the Senate amendments to the bill for the enrollment of the revision of the statutes were concurred in; one of the amendments annuls the contract with Little, Brown & Co., of Boston, for publishing the United States Statutes.

THE BEECHER-TILTON SCANDAL.

OPINIONS OF BEECHER'S FRIENDS.

New York, June 27.—The World characterizes the letter in which Tilton himself revives the unspeakable sorrows of his difficulties as an advertising dodge to secure attention to a specimen number of his weekly.

General Tracy, of Plymouth Church, says that while Tilton's letter fails to show what his charge is, it clearly shows it was not an offense for which one gentleman could not apologize to another and have the apology accepted. Tilton insists that an apology was offered and accepted. Upon this point he is very explicit. His claims that upon the receipt of the information which led him to make the charge he sought Beecher and obtained from him an explanation, which he regarded and accepted as an apology, and upon which he rested. He never suffered the past to disturb their public relations, and it would not now have disturbed them but for the manner in which Plymouth Church has treated his case. In connection with the proceedings of the Congregational Council, he says: "With this explanation of Beecher, he acted with a conscious desire to see Beecher protected rather than harmed." This forbids the supposition that Tilton regarded Beecher's conduct as affecting his honor, or that of any member of his family. The charge against Beecher is just this

Four years ago Tilton claims to have received information which led him to charge Beecher with having made a dishonorable suggestion to his wife. This is the extent of the charge, and the only charge Tilton has ever made against Beecher. This is all, and it is well known to members of Beecher's church that Mrs Tilton has repeatedly and emphatically denied it. Gen Tracy felt glad, for one, that Tilton had made his publication. The public now know the worst that can be said on the subject, and it will now be understood why the members of Plymouth Church, who have all along been well and accurately informed in the matter, have unanimously stood by their pastor during the long and unfortunate controversy.

Mr Beecher, in reply to all inquires on the subject, is non-committal, saying it was not for him to do anything in the premises, it was for his church to take action, and such action he would defy. The penitential tone and admissions in the letter published by Tilton were all susceptible of explanation, and this his friends knew. No practical good could come out of any further illumination of a story already buried away satisfactorily to everybody interested.

CONSULTATION ON TILTON'S LETTER.

New York, June 27.—At a consultation on Tilton's letter last evening by Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and several friends, Mr. Beecher is reported to have said that personally he was opposed to saying anything publicly in reply to Tilton's charges. He believed the only effect of the utterances would be to prolong the discussions of the case, while if silence were preserved the end would be speedily reached. He assured his friends that his bearing toward a silent policy was in no way caused by any fear of the consequences to himself by discussion. His desire was simply to get out of the difficulty with as little injury to others as possible. He knew that by speaking he could end the matter as far as he was personally concerned, but also thought that continued silence on his part would shortly have the same effect; and entertaining that opinion he could see nothing to be gained by any demonstration.

Professor Raymond admired the forbearance Beecher had all along exhibited, and was sure the congregation would have the same feeling; but he thought it a question whether forbearance had not ceased to be a virtue. It was he knew, Christian duty to be magnanimous; but the question in his mind was whether pusillanimity and magnanimity were convertible terms.

Mr. Sherman, lawyer and clerk to the Church, said that if it was necessary to say anything in reply to Tilton, it could be said very briefly. The whole matter was involved in the apologetic letter, and he thought all that was necessary was to show, as could be easily done, that the letter cited by Tilton was never written by Beecher, and that nothing resembling it exists.

Mr. Beecher remarked that they would all be in a better condition to determine what ought to be done a week hence, and since he saw no immediate necessity for action, he thought it would be just as well to give the question a week's calm consideration before determining anything.

In that spirit the Council dissolved.

F. B Carpenter, whom Tilton speaks of in connection with the raising of means to send himself and family to Europe for a few years, has been interviewed. Carpenter says:

"A few days after the adjournment of the Council I had occasion to call upon Beecher at his house in connection with a matter wholly disconnected from the scandal, and in the course of some friendly conversation, I mentioned the fact to Beecher that Tilton had just finished his book on which he had been engaged for a year. I added that the excitement of the Council had depressed him considerably, and that I, in common with several of his friends, wished he could go to Europe, and Beecher said he thought it would be an excellent thing for him to do. In reply to the remark that recent business embarrassments stood in the way, Beecher answered that if Tilton wished to go, means would be provided. I did not understand from anything said by Beecher that he made this proposition in order to secure Mr. Tilton's silence in regard to the scandal. The matter only came up incidentally. As I had not gone to speak to Beecher on the subject, he could hardly have expected that I would bring it up. I told Tilton what Beecher had said, and it enraged him greatly, although it was a long time afterward that I learned he had written to Beecher about the thing."

THE LATEST DEVELOPMENT—A STRANGE STORY.

New York, June 28.—A Sunday paper says of the Beecher-Tilton scandal: There is a young lady in Brooklyn involved whose name has never been brought before the public in connection with the case. She is handsome, accomplished and wealthy, and occupies a high social position. Strenuous efforts are being made to save her from disgrace. Certain parties now assailed in the case are bearing the odium to shield her character. Tilton, on being questioned respecting the young lady referred to, declined to converse on the subject. The same paper says it learns that Tilton has as yet only published a portion of the scandal; he has a large roll of manuscripts probably giving the history, which he has at various times been asked to part with for a large sum of money, but which he has refused. The same paper also learns from another source that when Tilton was first informed of the reasons of offense, he went to Frank Moulton and told him. Beecher was sent for, and being confronted by Tilton and charged with the offense, he fell on his knees and said, with emotion, "Theodore, this is true. I confess I am guilty;" then turning to the gentlemen present, he said: "I married these people. I do not know, before God, why I did it; they are my children."

The Herald this morning commenting on the Beecher-Tilton scandal says, "This unfortunate affair has now reached such a pass that the whole truth, whatever it is, ought to come out, since nothing can be more damaging than the prevailing suspicion. Tilton presents tangible facts. He should have printed the whole of Beecher's confession, or none."

Important to Savings Banks.—Syracuse, N. Y., June 20. Judge Woodruff has rendered a decision in the United States Circuit Court, at Canandaigua, affirming the decision of the late Judge Hall, of the District Court, that the People's Savings Bank of this city cannot recover on notes which it discounted for the firm of Jaycox & Green, amounting to about $35,000. The decision is rendered on the ground that under its charter the said bank was prohibited from discounting notes. Several other cases of the same nature are, by this decision, virtually decided against this bank.

THE BREWERS' DEMAND.

The United States Brewers' Association did not stop with the adoption of the resolution declaring sovereign power of beer over the ills of the human family. If they had halted at that point they would merely have laid themselves open to ridicule. But those who would meet and answer the address sent out by the Association, will find they have occasion for some weapon other than ridicule, as the following extracts may serve to show

|---|---|---|
| Total Internal Revenue receipts for the last fiscal year | | $1[illegible]2,747,772 90 |

Of this vast amount the following sums were collected during the year from the trade in stimulating beverages

|---|---|---|
| Fermented liquors, barrel tax | $8,910,8[illegible]3 83 | |
| Brewers' special tax | 301,6[illegible]0 21 | |
| Dealers in malt liquors | 109,5[illegible]3 80 | |
| | | $9,324,957 84 |
| Total from distilled spirits including tax as manufactured article, and rectifiers and wholesale and retail dealers' special tax | | 52,09[illegible] 78 |
| Grand total tax receipts from these sources | | $61,424,319 12 |

These official statements show the astonishing fact—astonishing as it must be to a vast majority of the people—that this trade, so fiercely denounced, so unreasonably warred against, and the total suppression of which is so clamorously demanded, did actually pay, for the last fiscal year, fifty-five per cent. of the entire Internal Revenue tax collected from all sources subject to it throughout the country.

* * * * *

There is yet another and a higher than a mere financial issue which we propose to submit to the people of the whole country. It is that of Personal Liberty. The principle of the Sovereignty of the Individual was years ago announced by an esteemed Massachusetts philosopher whose very definition of the term was accepted and embodied in systems of philosophy by eminent European thinkers. The spirit of that principle breathes forth in every line of our own immortal Declaration of Independence. It is the same which urged on and led throughout the Northern States the increasing agitation against negro bondage in the South and led to its final abolition. Upon that same principle we make the issue now. A man shall own himself, be his own master, be owned or controlled by nobody else, have no master or overseer put over him so long as he regards the like right to individual sovereignty in others. That was the sole aim established by the success of the American revolution, and it ought at last, through the results of our great war, to become the rule in every section of our Union of States. This right of personal liberty no man, and no community of men, has any legal power to interfere with. The "State" being a corporation of thousands or millions of people, has by the very cause of its existence, the power and duty to protect its members against outlaws; against those who disregard all rights of persons and of property and prey upon society. To repress and punish these is the sole object of criminal legislation. That is the whole extent of it, and it can no further go. The right to pursue any honest calling or trade, to change from one to another, to move from place to place, to live where and how one pleases, are but corollary to this incontestible right to personal liberty. The enjoyment of one's tastes and habits is alike an unassailable right, personal to each individual, and if he be but one in a community of 100,000, the other 99,999 have no just authority to prohibit or restrain him from the full exercise of that right, Whoever, by his acts, offends against public order, becomes amenable to the penal rules for its protection. But he who keeps within the strict limits of his own right stands upon the broad foundation of the sovereignty of the individual, and has all the bright principles of true American republicanism, and all whose faith in a higher manhood is still aglow to guard and defend him.

These fundamental principles we ask the Friends of Liberty in every city, county and State to urge upon the people at every suitable opportunity, and insist upon their spirit being introduced into every political platform, every candidate to be caused firmly to pledge himself to their enforcement, and a strict test to be made upon them at the polls. It were a sad day for this free land of ours, should it ever come to pass that after having given the black man back to himself, and endowed him with the power to govern the country along with his fellow men, we in the North should be retracing our steps, become recreant to the very principle of personal freedom that broke the chains of slavery in the South, and legalize among ourselves another equally reprehensible and unjust system of bondage, by which the right to his individual sovereignty could be denied to an unoffending citizen by any combination of men or women, large or small.

The opponents of personal liberty being leagued together and acting in concert through every State in the Union, it will become necessary for its friends to do likewise Men of all pursuits, professions and callings must be aware that their individual freedom being once curtailed in one direction, the meddling spirit that incited the first step will not rest satisfied with its partial victory. Fiercer and fiercer will its onslaught grow, and concession after concession will it demand to its domineering ambition. The foe cannot be fought piecemeal. He must be engaged in all his strength and laid at rest forever. A compact union of all the Friends of Liberty, determined not to sheath the weapons of offense until victory be lastingly secured, will accomplish it at the first trial. The times are propitious for such a movement. Political parties, as they were once known, with their iron grasp and stern discipline, holding their followers in close subjection, are in a state of more or less disintegration. And after all, the Friends of Liberty aim not only not at the destruction, but will strenuously work for the enhancement of those principles of either party, which are truly salutary to the common weal, and in every essential republican. We believe that there is a majority of voters in every village and hamlet in every town and city in the Continent, ready to join in leagues of freedom for the defence of the credit of the United States and for the protection of personal liberty.

A Horrible Relic of Ancient America.—In Ohio a mound of novel character has recently been cut through, in order to make the approach to the Newtown bridges near Cincinnati. It was evidently the debris of a huge sacrifice of children. A space of 25 feet in diameter had been covered with an immense heap of wood, then it was set on fire, and the children were tossed into it one by one, as in the ancient sacrifices of Moloch. The heat was evidently intense and long continued, as the ground plainly showed the effects of a violent conflagration. As soon as the sacrifice was completed and the fire had died out, the remains of the victims were all raked together in the center, and then the mound was raised in a very remarkable way. Soil was brought, apparently by different tribes, from different localities, and each variety was carefully deposited by itself, so that the differences were clearly distinguished. The remains collected consisted mostly of the jaws and teeth of children.

Then and Now.—In 1770, the bride of a Governor of Pennsylvania, who had to get her trousseau from England, sent the following order "A fine domestic cloth for twenty-one shillings, a neat fan of leather mount for twenty-five shillings, needles, Nos. 5 to 10, four pair of black calma shoes, eight dozen cap wires and a handsome spring silk." The last also including the sending of a gown to be dyed over, "of any color which would take best." For what it is now, see report of the Grant-Sartoris wedding.

The house of Mr. O. J. McCaslin, at Port Blakely, was entered by burglars on last Sunday night. They took away with them a watch, a draft in favor of C. Schumaker for $100, (No. 172) a note of Wm. Hosford's for $150 $20 in currency, a gold ring worth $8, and a small gold cross with pearl setting.

THE TERRITORIES.

Flour is selling at $22 50 per barrel in Helena, Montana, and but little to be had.

The sum of $8,000 has been appropriated by Congress to increase the capacity of the Montana Penitentiary.

Farmers in the Sound country say that grain and hay promise better crops this season than for ten years before.

A Washington Territory paper states that one-fourth of the water of Puget Sound is spawn of the jelly fish.

Olympia will have to pay above $10,000 tax this year, and some people would like to know where the money goes.

The Supreme Court of Washington Territory will convene in Olympia on the 13th inst., Chief Justice O. Jacobs presiding.

Some of the rankest grain fields along the line of the railroad from Kalama to Tacoma were prostrated by the late rains.

We understand the new vessel at Port Discovery will be launched on the 4th prox., when a dance will be given in honor of the occasion.

It is rumored that two companies of U. S. troops will be quartered at the Fort, about two miles from Port Townsend, early next month.

The Union Temperance meeting in Seattle last Sunday evening was a grand success. W. R. Andrews, Esq., made the leading speech, or address.

The election in Montana will occur August 3d. The Democrats will probably put up Hon. Martin Maginnis for re-election as Delegate to Congress.

Parties of five or more can obtain excursion tickets to Victoria and Puget Sound at the reduced rates, over the Northern Pacific Company's line.

Prof. A. B. Nicholson, of Kingston, N. Y., has accepted the professorship of the Territorial University, at Seattle, and will come soon to take charge.

The title to the townsite of Vancouver is still in a precarious condition. The latest from Congress seems to directly favor the Roman Catholic Church.

—Dr. Emil Ollson writes to a friend in Virginia, Montana, an interesting letter about the Stikine mines. He is of the opinion they are a bilk of the first water.

Greeley, Colorado, has had the bifurcated sensation of a respectable but indecorous girl promenading the streets in alpaca coat and linen pantaloons that buttoned up before.

In the trial of Wintermute for killing Gen. McCook in Dakota, the jury returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. Notice was given of a motion for a new trial.

Surveyor General A. J. Smith, Capt. Thos. P. Fuller, Collector of Revenue, and Mr. John H. Ming have been designated by the Secretary of the Treasury to select the location of the assay office at Helena.

A new Postoffice has been established at the ferry on Duwamish river, in King county, W. T., H. W. Miller, Postmaster. That is some six miles from Seattle, and will accommodate a large number of settlers.

Some thirty or forty gallons of whisky, the stock in trade of a roving band of Indians, was seized in Scow Bay, near Port Townsend, last Wednesday by parties living there. The whisky is supposed to have been obtained at some point up the Sound.

The Fort Collins Express chronicles the killing of two mountain lions by one A. J. Shotwell. He must have shot well, for he shot the top of the stomach off one of the beasts, and then riddled the other one with bullets before it had time to gather its wits and run.

A Deer Lodge paper, of June 20th, says Mr. Frank Truchot, of Warm Springs, made a purchase the other day that is not entirely satisfactory to him. A masculine personage, dressed in orthodox Indian costume, except that it has since transpired that he wore false hair glued on, appeared at his ranche and bantered him for a dicker. Frank finally invested a saddle and bridle and some money "to boot" in the horse the Indian was riding and "Lo" departed. Subsequently the said Indian left the other horse up the creek, stole a third horse from the ranch of Daniel Thomas and hied away toward the Big Hole. It now transpires that the Indian was Peter Matte, one of the parties who stole so many horses and killed Goodwin on Snake river last year, and who afterwards, if we remember rightly, turned State's evidence against his comrades at Missoula. A party of them, supposed to include Gash who shot Sheriff Marion, are believed to have a rendezvous on the Upper Big Hole.

A dispatch from Granite, Colorado, says: The anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill was celebrated in the vicinity to-day by the killing of George Harrington by a man named Gibbs, under circumstances of peculiar atrocity. The murderer and the murdered were neighbors, living on Gas creek about thirty miles below here, near the Arkansas river. For some time there had been ill blood between them, caused by a dispute about a ditch forming the boundary line between their farms, and yesterday Gibbs assaulted Harrington, but the latter managed to free himself, and took refuge in his house which he bolted and barred against his antagonist. About midnight, however, Gibbs contrived to fire Harrington's milk-house, and, when the latter came to the rescue of his burning property, Gibbs, lying in wait in the darkness, drew a bead on him as he stood clearly revealed by the light of the flames, and shot him through the heart. Harrington was a dead man before he reached the ground. The assassin has been arrested.

The Denver News of the 24th ult., says: "Carmack and family and young Ritchie lived together on a ranch a mile or so from the village of Fountain. Ritchie was farming a piece of leased ground adjacent to Carmack's ranche. As both parties obtained water for irrigating purposes from the same ditch, several times of late they came near quarreling over their respective rights, and the disputes were each time becoming more heated and acrimonious On Tuesday morning they were up betimes, and, as usual, the dispute over the water was renewed. High words, and possibly threats, were indulged in, when Ritchie, drawing a revolver, shot Carmack in the head, killing him instantly. The victim fell upon his back. His slayer, not satisfied with having simply killed his antagonist, stepped up alongside the body, and, stooping down, fired three more shots into the face of his victim, the bullets tearing and terribly disfiguring the head. Having satiated his thirst for blood, Ritchie walked to Fountain and gave himself into the custody of Justice Perkins, at the same time detailing the circumstances of the tragedy. The sons of the murdered man are very violent in their demonstrations, and openly threaten to avenge their father's death."

Has a Higher Mission.—Dudley W. Adams, head man of the National Grange, publishes a card in the Lansing (Iowa) Mirror, viz:

Various papers in this district have mentioned my name in connection with Congressional honors this fall. Please to say that this has been done without my consent, as my time is fully occupied in a work more agreeable, and I hope more useful, than a political canvass of the Third Congressional District. Respectfully yours, DUDLEY W. ADAMS.

FRIDAY MORNING JULY 3 1874

THIRD TERM FOOLERY

"Third Term Foolery" is the very appropriate name given by the Illinois State Journal to all the idiotic literature which is building up on the basis of the New York Herald's sensational invention of "Cæsarism" and the National Republican's recent oracular utterances on the subject of the re election of Grant to the Presidency The National Republican is a successful rival of the Washington Chronicle for the position of Administration Organ at the national capital, and appears to desire above all things else the reputation of being the mouthpiece of the President. In order to secure this reputation it allows no opportunity to pass unimproved for obtaining and publishing in advance all the determinations and purposes of the Executive and his Cabinet all the conversations of the President with his confidential friends which can by any means be cork screwed out of persons enjoying such confidential relations and all the movements the goings to and fro, the down sittings and the uprisings of Grant and his immediate political household Through pursuing such a course the National Republican has come to be regarded as in some sort the authoritative exponent of the views and objects of the President or as we should express it on the Pacific coast, it has acquired the reputation of being a "personal organ" of the President Hence its shilly-shallying about the Third Term has attracted much more attention, and has been copied and commented upon more on account of its source than on account of its sense Although we have heretofore given the remarks of the National Republican greater prominence in these columns than they have deserved, we reproduce them here for the sake of placing them in juxtaposition with the comments of the Illinois State Journal After disposing of all the other possible candidates with a wave of the hand, the National Republican discusses Grant as follows

But what of General Grant? Friend and foe alike the most thoughtful men of all parties concede that if the Presidential battle of 1876 were to be fought this year, no candidate upon any platform could defeat him Is it not probable that he will be stronger than he is now? Will he accept or decline a renomination? Will he do as Jefferson did and put it away from him? Will he force his renomination? Will be quarrel with his party? Will his party dare to quarrel with him? Will he found a new party? Will he simply content himself with dictating his successor, and if so who will it be? Will he forever maintain this mysterious significant silence upon a question about which the politicians are so perplexed which the independent editors are dying to find out? These be enigmas which no ingenuity can solve and so the whole Presidential question remains a mystery and a speculation One lesson however, can be drawn from it—that is, it is all nonsense to talk about the death of a party whose official head can it is admitted on all sides be reelected for a third term almost without opposition and in spite of all the traditions of our politics

To all of which the editor of the State Journal replies in a strain which, to our thinking, is just about as nearly the exact one demanded by the truth and the occasion as one is often privileged to see in these days of journalistic and political degeneracy when Butlerism and Shepherdism and Tweedism, and all similar gospels of political righteousness are set at defiance The State Journal says of the Republican's outgivings

The concession indicated by "friend and foe alike" is simply bosh There has not been, nor will there be any such idiotic performance indulged in by men of sense of any party as pushing any one for a third term The editor of the Republican is simply making a fool of himself

Gen Grant has been generously elected twice President of the United States as were Washington Jefferson Madison Monroe Jackson and Lincoln and like all these Presidents, except Mr Lincoln if he shall live to the end of his term he will retire to private life and give way to his successor—a successor who will not be named by him either but by a Republican National Convention, representing the wishes and will of the people in the same sense and degree as those which honored him with their choice in 1868 and 1872

Such pecksniffian sheets as the National Republican may as well understand, at once, that there is no one in favor of a third term for any gentleman as President of the United States except a few cheap hangers on and dependent office-holders of whom that sheet is a proper exponent Its fawning sycophancy and disgusting obsequiousness are only equalled by the contempt in which they are held by all honest men Gentlemen while they support the President in good faith do not forget that they are themselves American citizens equal in every respect, save in his official character, to the President himself The people of the United States are utterly sick of the political buzzards of Washington whose cringing crawling lick spittleism is a disgrace to the whole country

THE GOSPEL OF MALT

The "National Brewers Association," at its recent session in Boston, determined to take the aggressive Instead of insisting that no further restrictions should be placed upon the traffic in malt liquors, it was determined to inaugurate a crusade against all legislation subjecting this class of business to police regulations to which other business is not subjected. The gist of the platform of the Association is in the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted

Resolved, That, through our local associations by personal effort, and by means of our official organs and the press generally we will endeavor to influence public opinion in favor of the use of malt liquors as wholesome nutritious and absolutely necessary as a healthful restorative, without in any manner or form tending to the injury of person or property and therefore not calling for any police regulations.

It will be noticed that the Association takes higher ground than that of the right of the people to drink beer as a medium of social intercourse and consequently a source of enjoyment It is proposed to agitate this question from the stand point of active philanthropy, insisting that malt liquors are "wholesome nutritious and absolutely necessary as a healthful restorative" It is implied in this proposition either that all mankind have, by some process which is not stated fallen from a state of health, to which they can be restored only by the free use of brewed liquors, or that such liquors are only to be recommended for sick people, since only such are in need of a restorative It would give the agitation a better send-off if the Association had given a more exact definition of their position and of the ground which they propose to stand upon, by stating explicitly whether they are going to insist that all mankind are sick with the disease for which lager beer is the sole specific in all the materia medica of nature and art, or whether they intend merely to insist that persons who are admitted to be sick must submit to a course of "bock" or "brown stout" as an "absolutely necessary" restorative

And for other reasons than that of convenience in discussion we should be glad to see the position of the Association stated with greater definiteness It can hardly be that such a doctrine as that of this resolution can have been promulgated until it had first been thoroughly tested and its truth demonstrated at least to the satisfaction of its advocates themselves, by scientific methods We are therefore warranted in assuming that this new doctrine already the basis of a guild in the world's industries is likewise a most splendid scientific discovery In this feature of the case we feel the deepest interest, inasmuch as it appears by no means impossible that it may furnish a solution to the old and perplexing problem of original sin What a pleasant thought that the "Adamic transgression" and all the consequent depravity of man may mean nothing more than simply that by eating that sour apple our first parents threw themselves into a condition of aggressive intoxication from which they or their descendants could in no event recover except through the liberal use of malt and that regeneration is henceforth merely a question of hops and barley We contemplate the possibility of this discovery with emotions of inexpressible delight Such a solution of the original sin problem carries with it a solution also of the knotty questions of free will and foreordination, deciding them, too, just as the world would like to have them decided for who will pretend that anybody need be lost, if salvation by lager beer is to take the place in our religious systems which is now filled by the abstruse idea of salvation by God? For our own part we embrace the new theology at once and without further inquiry A religion bottomed upon science cannot but be an extremely pleasant religion to have—to say nothing of the "brown stout" and "bock" And we know personally a good many Christian gentlemen, who we are sure would not be nearly so well satisfied as they seem to be at present with their own regeneration but would strive for the perfecting of their purification by the new method with a persistence and energy compared with which the labors of Hercules, or even the "struggles" of Grover, were as nothing "Alf and 'alf" for us, if you please—and just a little "lively"

ALL THINGS TO ALL MEN

There appears to be two sides to the question whether the Republican State Convention of Illinois was in favor of inflation or not Its platform touched the financial situation with such consummate skill that inflationists accept it as an inflation platform, while resumptionists are equally certain it is just the opposite of an inflation platform It is either inflation or contraction according to the glass through which it is viewed The Republicans having now reached the point where they are not certain what principles they would better profess, are prepared to take the next step which will bring them to where the question will be whether they would better not profess any principles at all About the only difference now discernible between them and the Democracy is, the Republicans are not certain what their political principles are, and the Democrats are not certain that they have any principles "Union men may honestly differ," was a joke in 1866, when the Oregon Republicans solemnly declared their position on the Johnson defection in that sentence, but it has now come to be the accepted position of the party on all the vital questions that are before the country

LAMAR OF MISSISSIPPI

The Washington correspondent of the Illinois State Journal says the great speech of the discussion occasioned by the contest between Pinchback and Sheridan for a seat in the National House of Representatives was that of Mr Lamar of Mississippi, in favor of awarding the seat to Sheridan The correspondent says

He did not long dwell upon the subject but fell into kindred issues and broadened into a comprehensive view of the whole situation Mr Lamar is an able man and broad enough to deserve the often bestowed but rarely merited name of statesman and if he does not yet make a record in national politics he will disappoint many who clustered around him on Monday His effort was brilliant with eloquence, but saddened by a true picture of the struggles, heroism and endurance of the Southern people—a struggle unwritten but to which many thousands can testify Mr Lamar was a Colonel in the Confederate army and upon the altar of States Rights had lost fifteen of his kinsmen but in the close of the war the question was lost and he would not have it renewed. He claimed all the rights of other sections of the country as part of it and while he would not defraud the black man yet his voice was for that race which had for centuries borne the banner of civilization and Christianity The crowd grew dense around him and his form seemed to rise higher and his fine eye fire with the earnestness of his convictions At the conclusion a shout of approbation went up from the Democratic side and a great many Republicans congratulated him upon his happy defense of his views Such men as Lamar will regain the ascendency in the South as sure as mind rules, and will be all the better nobler, stronger for the baptism of fire through which their errors have led them

The Common Council of Austin Minnesota, some time ago passed an ordinance fixing the price of liquor licenses at $600 a quarter whereat the saloon keepers were greatly exercised and petitioned to have the license reduced to $100 The Council reconsidered their former action and reduced the license to $100 and now the temperance people are in turn working themselves up to a tragical state of mind So goes the contest which has puzzled the wisest heads in the world

INFORMATION WANTED

The Bulletin wants to go into a co operative union with the OREGONIAN with a view of reforming certain measures which it specifically sets forth Among them it states one as follows

"The action of the Legislature in regard to the Board of Equalization and the great wrong and invidious discrimination committed under cover of the Act

If it is permissible for an outsider to ask a question or two, we desire in the interests of truth at this early stage in the labors of the reformers co operative union to be informed by the Bulletin as to—

First—What particular action of the Legislature in regard to the Equalization Law it complains of or desires to reform?

Second—What great wrong was committed under cover of the Equalization Act

Third—In what respect was there any invidious discrimination committed under cover of the Act?

A few matter of fact statements plainly put in response of these questions may not read quite as well as the pompous diction which it is the Bulletin's want to employ but we respectfully suggest that they are much more likely to facilitate the work which it is now laying off for itself In other words if the Bulletin will not be quite so gushing, and will be a little more definite and pointed in speaking of the matter in question it will be altogether more satisfactory — News

STILL SHOWS FIGHT —A New Orleans dispatch of June 23 says

Notwithstanding the attempt of the Ilberals to smother the Bulletin it appeared this afternoon as usual and continues the Kellogg-Durrell usurpationists styling them Unfernal [illegible] and vandals now in power by the grace of Federal bayonets To the Republican newspaper the Bulletin returns thanks for the courtesies which enable it to continue publication until its new type can be laid

CITY.

A NEAT LITTLE BOAT.—Mr Jas L Hughes has had constructed a very neat little propeller which will be employed in plying about the mouth of the Columbia—Astoria, Skipanon, Ilwaco, Cape Disappointment, etc The size of this craft is length 56 feet, beam 10 feet, hold 3½ feet. The boat will be used exclusively for transporting passengers and has been connected with express reference to that object. It is without question one of the snuggest little crafts afloat and for a pleasure boat possesses superior passenger accommodations. The Ilwaco—for such is the name the new craft will bear—was built at Astoria by Mr Rutter and will is a perfect model of beauty, and for trim and symmetrical outline we ... could make at least fifteen knots an hour. The propeller which has three blades and a diameter of forty six inches will be driven by two engines, each 6½ inch bore and having a stroke of eight inches. The motive power is generated in a boiler forty-eight inches in diameter and six feet long. Machinery and boiler are all new. The craft was brought up on Wednesday for the purpose of having the hull and boiler inspected. She will be taken to Astoria this morning, and in a few days be ready to make regular trips. The Ilwaco will be commanded by Capt J G Hust.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.—The evening cotemporary reports the following: Yesterday afternoon a young lady named Miss Rankin residing in the northern portion of the city had occasion to go to a bureau belonging to the family and observing a soiled towel apparently rolled up in a heap in one corner of a drawer, she took it by the loose end and pulled it out of its hiding place and before she had time to think she saw the flash and heard the report of a pistol, and observing some fresh blood upon her clothing, was assured to find that she had been shot through the palm of the right hand. Upon examination it was found that the towel contained two small derringers one of which had gone off by the concussion upon the floor, creating the wound above described. The young lady's wound was dressed by an attending physician, and we are pleased to learn that it will work no permanent injury to the member.

[From the Sentinel]

The annual exhibition of St Michael's College will take place this (Friday) afternoon at 2 o'clock. The examination of the pupils in their several studies will be completed in the forenoon, commencing at 9 o'clock A M.

The Committee of Arrangements for the Sunday School picnic have taken another observation and with the aid of a theodolite, two solar compasses, a barometer and a refracting telescope have concluded that the picnic will not occur until after the Fourth of July.

We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend the Commencement exercises of St Mary's Academy, Notre Dame, Indiana. If the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad were built we would avail ourselves of this kindly remembrance, but as it is not we can only thank Mother Mary Angela for this far distant favor.

[From the ... Advocate.]

The Santiam Academy at Lebanon, Rev J M Nickerson Principal, has closed a prosperous year. There have been over one hundred students in attendance. The town is improving and the prospects of the school are encouraging.

The ladies of the Taylor Street M E Church will give one of their pleasant sociables on Wednesday evening next in the lecture room of the church. We are assured that all who attend on that evening will be highly gratified with the evening's entertainment.

The season has not been favorable for camp meetings in Oregon owing to the prevalence of damp and cold weather. There was quite a good attendance on Sabbath last at the Ames Chapel camp ground and the exercises and sermons were very interesting and profitable.

WHERE TO CELEBRATE.

To-morrow is a national holiday and the average Webfoot will have abundant opportunities to celebrate.

The Grangers of Washington county will give a celebration at Hillsboro to-morrow, to which all are cordially invited. The cars will leave this city at an early hour for the accommodation of the public and will return in the evening. A grand time is promised.

A number of persons in this city will take the cars to-morrow for Aurora and spend the day in as pleasant a manner as possible, will return to Portland.

The citizens of East Portland will celebrate the Fourth at the Park in Grand style—music, parade, oration, concert, dancing, games and concluding with fireworks in the evening.

The ladies of Rebekah Degree Lodge will give an excursion up through the Locks. The steamer chartered for the occasion will leave the wharf and passing up to the picnic grounds opposite Canemah will return in the evening with the excursionists.

The people of Kalama will likewise vigorously light the torch of patriotism. A boat will leave Portland to-morrow morning for that place for the accommodation of those who may desire to attend.

An excursion will be given to the Cascades, the steamer with a large barge leaving this city early and returning in the evening. There will be plenty of music and dancing and a general good time.

A number of temperance people have made arrangements and propose to hold a quiet celebration at Sullivan's Spring back of East Portland.

The people of Powell's Valley will also hold a celebration on the glorious Fourth.

BASE BALL.

The Arcadians are happy. They chartered the Vancouver yesterday and with at least a hundred friends started off gaily at 10 30 A M, arriving in season for dinner. The Vancouver club met them and invited the players to a sumptuous repast—that's the way it is generally put—at the conclusion of which they journeyed to the battle-field to be vanquished or vanquish. Mr John R Harned was chosen umpire, and the game proceeded. It looked rather dubious for the visitors, as they were retired in lively style. This was not to last long for they scored eight in the second inning, and up to the sixth the game promised to be very close. The Arcadians went in strong, and at the end of the ninth inning the game stood 33 to 23. The playing of the Eagles was excellent throughout. Of course the Arcadians must have been better, else why the result? The strength of the Eagles is mainly in the field. They show ten flies caught to nine of their opponents. We will not individualize but leave our readers to judge by the annexed score. The return game will be played here next week probably.

AMUSEMENTS.

Messrs Welch and Rice were favored with a fair audience on the occasion of their benefit last evening. They did capitally in their songs and dances being enthusiastically encored at the conclusion of each act. Messrs Baker and Russell sang as usual well in the first part and later in the evening they consented to sing "The Larboard Watch." This beautiful production was rendered by the truly eminent artists with exquisite taste, and drew forth unbounded applause. Of Newcomb, Knight, Sweatnam, Reed and the rest little need be said as they are now known and have performed their share of the many attractions of the past two weeks to perfection. The company having sufficient time will give the ladies and children a special matinee at 2 P M to-day. A programme suited to the taste of the fair sex and little ones will be presented. The admission is fixed at popular prices—fifty and twenty five cents. Once more we congratulate Manager Greenwall upon the unqualified success the company has met with during their brief sojourn among us. Crowd the house this afternoon—the last opportunity.

CHANGE OF TROOPS.

The following order has been received by Major H Clay Wood from Headquarters Division of the Pacific under date of San Francisco June 24, 1874:

Companies F and I Fourth Artillery, Capts Campbell and Field commanding will proceed by steamer to and take station at Sitka, Alaska, relieving Companies D and C Fourth Artillery, which will come to San Francisco and be reported to the Commanding officer of the Department of California for assignment to stations.

The Quartermaster's Department will furnish the necessary transportation. Companies D and C now at Sitka returning by the same steamer which takes up Companies F and I.

All Ordnance and Ordnance stores except sufficient arms etc, etc, for guard purposes and all other property, stores and supplies not absolutely necessary for use by these troops while en route will be turned over at place of departure to save expense of transportation.

BALLS AND PARTIES.

This evening the public are requested to bear in mind that a grand military and civic ball will be given at Arkony's Hall for the benefit of the East Portland Band. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of a new and appropriate uniform for the Band. All the military organizations of the city have expressed a willingness to either turn out in the work and render all the assistance in their power to make the affair a grand social and financial success. ## THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

SEMI ANNUAL EXAMINATION OF PUPILS IN THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL FOR PROMOTION TO THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Availing ourselves of an invitation we visited the Central School yesterday forenoon for the purpose of witnessing the examinations now in progress in all the departments of the school and especially those of the Grammar and High School departments. The first department we visited was the room in which the examination of pupils of the Grammar School for promotion to the High School was being conducted. In this room we found 46 pupils—male and female—taken from all the low grades of the Public Schools of the city. The examination was conducted by a Board consisting of the Head Principals of the Public Schools: Profs J M Williamson, J W Pratt, S W King, T W Johnson, Mr Freeman, J F Anderson and the Superintendent of Public Instruction for Multnomah county, Rev T L Eliot. Rev G H Atkinson was also selected by Mr Eliot and other members comprising the Board to assist in the examination. The examination was strictly written and was conducted on a far more thorough, systematic and perfect plan than could possibly have been arrived at by an oral one. It is we believe the second written examination which has taken place at all in the history of the Public Schools of the city. The examination was conducted in the following manner: The Board of Examination had printed ten difficult questions under each of the headings of Arithmetic, Mental Arithmetic, Grammar, Physical Geography, History, Physiology, Spelling, Writing and Composition. These printed slips were next distributed among all the pupils and they were required to work out all the examples—ten—on their slates and then transfer the same to a clean sheet of writing paper with pen and ink. Not an oral question was propounded to the scholars and each pupil was required to silently work out the answers. They were not allowed to converse, hold any communication among themselves or to ask for or receive the slightest instruction one from the other. By this strict method each pupil was compelled to rely solely on his own resources to carry him through. A certain length of time was allowed the pupils to find the correct answers and write the same down. After finishing the ten questions given they were required to fold up the sheet of paper on which were written the answers and hand it to the Board. They were then given other slips on which were printed ten more questions in another branch. These they were required to work out noiselessly as the preceding one and hand the results of their labor to the Board and so on through all the successive branches. To avoid even the semblance of favoritism in determining the proper grade or standing of the pupils the board adopted the following excellent plan. Before the examination commenced in the morning each pupil was numbered which number together with the name of the scholar was written on a card. These cards were then gathered up and laid one side. As the pupils finished the questions contained in each study in which they were examined only the number represented by them were written on the back of the folded paper. When the Board commenced to examine each of the written questions to determine the correctness of the work and the result none of them knew which one of the pupils work they were examining. After going through in like manner with all the work they proceeded to fix the percentage under each separate branch and carry out the total. When this was accomplished they then took out the cards and ascertained the name of each pupil represented by the numbers which name was written opposite the proper standing. Under this arrangement no favoritism could possibly be shown and each pupil was placed entirely on the correctness of his work and his own merits as a student.

At the last semi annual examination held in February the Examining Board inspected the work of each pupil in all the various branches enumerated and determined the grade and standing. This was a very tedious method and required much time. In order to expedite matters in this particular sub committees were appointed—each consisting of two members of the Board—whose duty it was to examine the work of the pupils in each study. As soon as the pupil works out all the ten examples in say Arithmetic, the sub committee takes the result of his labors retires to a private room and then examines carefully each paper to determine whether the work was correct or not, and mark the standing which in the judgment of the committee it may be entitled. Of course each sheet of paper is numbered corresponding to the name of a pupil but the members of the committee have no means of knowing each pupil's work and cannot form the most remote idea as to the individual's labor being examined. While these examinations are being made by the sub committee the pupils meantime are busily engaged in working out the examples in another branch under the surveillance of the other members of the Board. By this arrangement the labor of examining the papers is more uniformly distributed and much time saved. After all the students have gone through the prescribed branches, and the sub committees have made their examinations and marked on the margin of the paper the standing of the pupil to which it belonged, the whole matter is to be submitted to the full Board who will glance at each paper and if the marking indicates the proper grade it will be allowed to stand if not such alterations will be made as the judgment of the Board may dictate.

The following are the sub committees appointed to examine the pupils work in the branches prescribed: Arithmetic, Professor Pratt, Rev T L Eliot; Mental Arithmetic, Professors Anderson and Williamson; Grammar, Miss Hodgdon and Professor Johnson; Physical Geography, Professors Williamson and Anderson; History, Professor Freeman, Rev George H Atkinson; Physiology, Prof Johnson and Miss Hodgdon; Spelling and Composition, Rev G H Atkinson and Prof Freeman; Reading, Rev T L Eliot, Professor Pratt.

One hundred has been established by the Board as the maximum percentage of merit and 75 as the minimum. Pupils who are fortunate enough to be perfect in the examination are entitled to have 100 placed opposite their name, but those who fall below 75 will not be admitted to the High School for the present.

During our visit we could not help observing the strict decorum maintained and the quiet orderly manner which characterized the whole day's proceedings. Impartiality and thoroughness appeared to be the object most desired to be accomplished by the Examining Board. It was a pleasant spectacle to witness the avidity and earnestness with which each pupil addressed himself or herself to the task of working out the answers. The examination ... the whole day and the result will not be known and announced before to-day or possibly not until to-morrow. When the Board have determined who are entitled to promotion we shall publish the names of the pupils and respective standing of the same.

HIGH SCHOOL.

From the Grammar Department we proceeded to the High School under the very efficient direction of Prof J W Johnson. Written examinations have been held in this Department for the past week conducted by Mr Johnson, assisted by Prof Meacham. The studies in which the pupils have been examined comprise all the branches pursued, including Latin, French, German, Higher Mathematics, Grammar, Philosophy, etc. Prof Johnson is certainly one of the most thorough, competent and energetic instructors of the State and it is sufficient to say that the examinations of the pupils of the department over which he presides have been throughout of the most careful, painstaking and thorough character. In fact the examination in the High School will close ... During the past six months the average attendance at the High School has been ...

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

From the High School we passed through the Primary Department. In Miss Barker's room we found a room full of very small children, ranging in age from five to eight years, who went through the required exercises orally or on the blackboard with a degree of readiness really surprising. During the past three months the average attendance has been sixty. The pupils in Miss Barker's room belong to the sixth grade as classified at present. Next above the last grade in years and advancement, comes the fifth under the tutorship of Walter Johnson. The average attendance in this department during the quarter just closed is forty eight. Mrs Dwyer has charge of the fourth grade which has an average attendance of fifty five. Miss Risley also has charge of a portion of the fourth grade, in another department, with an average attendance of forty-two. The third grade under the tutorage of Mrs Phelps. Average attendance during the past quarter thirty seven. Miss Sutton has charge of the ... grade, with an average attendance of thirty four.

To-day the school year closed after a season of unexampled prosperity as regards numbers and with the most substantial results.

The best advocate that Kansas ever had, John W Barrett of Indiana is now inquiring about Oregon with a view of immigrating. He proposes to leave Kansas—whether he can sell his land or not.

George W Hume has nine fishing boats with head quarters at Tongue Point, and the old steamer Mary Bell is moored there, and the Astoria steamers receive the fish at the Point every morning for Eagle Cliff.

A little son of Mr J W Haines of Salem aged about ten years met with a painful accident Tuesday evening while playing around a cow. The cow became frightened and, whirling suddenly around, threw the boy to the ground with such force as to break his arm.

Stephen Fairfield whose farm is twelve miles southeast of Astoria, states that his oats now stand all of six feet in height and has not commenced heading out yet, unless since last Monday. One of his neighbors, Mr Charles Starr has a meadow of timothy which it is estimated will produce five tons to the acre. It is now more than waist high and has grown very thick.

The Astorian says: Postmaster General Creswell informs Hon J H Mitchell that service on the route from Astoria via Nehalem to Forest Grove has been let to the lowest bidder. We are fearful that the letting of information will not be of great service to us as that worthy bidder to whom the service has been awarded lives down in Arkansas and the price is so low that he could not perform the service without running into debt.

The Salem Statesman of the 21 inst contains the following: The wife of Mr W J Kramer late of Portland was suddenly taken very ill about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon with what the physicians who were called in pronounced congestion of the liver. She had been slightly unwell for two or three days though it was not supposed that her complaint was of a serious nature. All that kind and skillful hands could do was done for her relief but without avail. She died about seven o'clock last evening.

LAKE TITICACA.—This is the most singular and interesting lake in the world. Situated on the crest of the Andes, it is the highest large body of fresh water, and as concurrent traditions point to it as the spot where Manco Capac the first inca appeared and woke the aboriginal tribes from their long sleep of barbarism and ignorance, it is the historic center of South America. Humboldt called it the theater of the earliest American civilization. On an island within it are the imposing ruins of the temple of the sun and all around it are monuments which attest the skill and magnificence of the incas. There are also as at Titihuanaco and Silustani the remains of burial towers and palaces which antedate the crusades and are therefore pre-incarial. Lake Titicaca is about the size of our Ontario shallow on the west and north, deep toward the east and south. The eastern or Bolivian shore being backed by the lofty range of Sorata, is very high and precipitous. The lake never freezes over although the temperature of Puno is often 18 deg at sunrise. Two little steamers of 100 tons each do a trifling business. Steam is generated by llama dung, the only fuel of the country, for there are no trees within 150 miles. The steamers actually cost their weight in silver, for their transportation (in pieces) from the coast cost as much as the original price. A steamboat company has just asked Bolivia the exclusive right of navigating the Titicaca and the Rio Desagua dero to Lago Pampa with a guaranty of 6 per cent cost on the capital and a share in all new mines discovered. Professor Orton the latest traveler in that region, calls attention to the fact that Lake Titicaca is not so high as usually given in geographical works by about 600 feet. Its true altitude is 12,493 feet and in the dry season it is four feet less. This fact has been revealed by the careful levelings made in building the Arequipa Railway just finished which reaches from the Pacific to Lake Titicaca.—Scientific ...

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

[illegible] AND MURDER [illegible] CALIFORNIA RANCH

From the Marysville Appeal of June 26th we take the annexed details of a tragedy which occurred at Honcut below Bangor, in Butte county on the 22d of June

It appears that an old man named Shirley [illegible] Henry Price are neighbors and that the latter has a daughter named Eunice about seventeen years of age whom Shirley wished to marry. The old man continued to press his suit and to gain favor had in some way become the creditor of the family in the sum of [illegible] $41 Shirley's affections were not reciprocated by the daughter Eunice and the old man it seems resolved upon desperate means to bring his court [illegible] to an end. He therefore on Monday last armed himself with a revolver and two or three knives and went to the house of Mr Price and demanded the payment of the sum of money due him—about $41. Approaching the daughter Eunice Shirley said he wanted the money due him or her. Eunice informed Shirley that they could not pay him the money, as they had none, but that he could take a flock of turkeys which she had raised. This reply being unsatisfactory and a rejection of his suit, Shirley drew his revolver leveled it at her head and pulled the trigger. Fortunately the chamber failed to revolve far enough and the hammer did not explode the cap. The father and a negro boy who were present immediately interfered to prevent the assassination and a sharp tussle ensued between the three during which Price received a cut in one of his hands from a knife which he seized by the blade. Finally the two overpowered and disarmed Shirley, and upon a promise that he would remain quiet he was released and allowed to get up off the floor. But as he raised up, Shirley drew another knife, which was concealed on his person, and thrust it into the right side of Mr Pierce, inflicting a serious wound

FLIGHT OF THE DAUGHTER

Her father being slain, Eunice slipped out the back door with the determination of saving her life if possible by flight to the house of William Moore, distant about one mile. In the meantime a younger sister seeing the necessity of help and needing assistance for the care of her father, jumped upon Shirley's horse which was standing by the door and rode off to the residence of Richard Flood and a Mrs Norris about a mile distant in another direction from which Eunice had started. Shirley soon discovered the route Eunice had taken and started off in pursuit of her. Seeing that she was a long way ahead of him he returned to the house to get his horse. Finding it gone, he mounted a mule, but the animal bucked him off and he was obliged to resume the pursuit on foot—the frightened Eunice all this time fleeing toward the residence of William Moore with all her physical strength. Shirley do doubt wished to overtake her in the field, and there assassinate or force a pledge of marriage from her. Fortunately for Miss Price she reached within hearing distance of Mr Moore before the desperate and blood thirsty villain overtook her. He however stopped her within about forty yards of the house, when she cried out, addressing Mr Moore, Don't let him kill me

ANOTHER STRUGGLE

Mr Moore seemed to lose no time in comprehending the situation and immediately came out of his house with a shot gun. But Shirley and the trembling Eunice were partially entwined together, and Mr Moore dare not shoot at the old grey headed monster for fear he would wound the girl. Shirley was supporting the fainting and frightened Eunice by the waist on his left arm, while in his right hand he held a large and shining knife with the point aimed at her heart. Mr Moore advanced on Shirley and dealt him a heavy blow over his head, but it did not knock him down. The gun, however, was discharged by the concussion, the contents passing over the head of Shirley. Then commenced another struggle between the two men for the possession of the gun, as Shirley seized it as the blow was struck. The parties fought for some time desperately, and during which Shirley tried to stab Mr Moore, but he escaped with a long cut in his pantaloons, near the right thigh. The struggle continued till Moore picked up a rock and gave Shirley a heavy blow upon the head, which ended the contest. Moore then tied the hands of his helpless antagonist and led him, at the end of the rope, to Bangor, for the purpose of delivering him to the Justice of the Peace. Finding this officer absent, Shirley was taken to Wyandotte, where he was examined and sent to the Oroville Jail, to answer before the next Grand Jury. Dr Vance of Oroville, was called to examine the wound of Mr Price, and pronounced it necessarily mortal. Price was a widower, his wife dying about a year ago. Though poor the family is respectable, and the two daughters much esteemed by their neighbors. Shirley is an old man, aged about sixty years, and is the possessor of some property. We understand that he has heretofore borne the reputation of a peaceable and quiet citizen. Our informant says the people in that neighborhood contemplate awarding Mr Moore a gold medal, as a token of his courage and the victory he achieved

SHEPHERD AND MURTAGH

THE THIRD-TERM EDITORIAL IN THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN—DID MURTAGH SPEAK FROM BEHIND THE THRONE?

[From the N Y Times June 17]

Gov. Cooke and Gov Shepherd probably now see the mistake they made in allowing street-paving contracts to be hawked about for sale by such men as Murtagh. There is no excuse for the transaction by means of which this swindle exacted $25,000 from a firm of builders in return for a contract in which he had not invested a cent but which he obtained through his alleged influence as "editor" of a "government paper." An obscure Irish adventurer, this man Murtagh suddenly appeared as a contractor for street pavements, and he was allowed to take out contracts simply that he might levy black-mail upon persons to whom he was in debt. The District Investigation Committee make the following remarks in their report in reference to the frauds of this kind

But Murtagh, nothing abashed tries to make it all right at his headquarters by crying out for a "third term for Gen Grant." The result of this is that half the opposition papers in that country declare that this cry is raised by the President's desire. Thus the Spring field Republican.

"The Committee are of opinion that the Board of Public Works adopted an erroneous and, in its results a vicious method of letting contracts for this work, namely, without competition open to the public, and that the method adopted by the Board resulted in the payment of an increased price over and above what would have been paid if open fair and free competition had been invited. This system made easy another reprehensible feature of this business, viz, the awarding of contracts to persons who were not expected to perform them, but who was thereby enabled to sell them for a consideration to others to execute.

Probably no intelligent man—certainly no intelligent journalist—can be made to believe that they threw out that suggestion without knowing perfectly well what they were about, without the best possible reasons for believing that Gen Grant would not be displeased to see it in print. Hence with its appearance the third term discussion enters a new phase. Hitherto it has been speculative now it becomes business. Here is something that is either an announcement or feeler or—still more likely—a mixture of both. If the popular response is unsatisfactory nothing is easier at this stage than to disavow it. But it can bear but one construction 'Barkis is willin'

Precisely—there can be no doubt whatever that Murtagh is a great ornament to Washington, and it is not surprising that he should be so deeply reverenced by the Administration which he serves

WINE IMPORTERS BITTEN —Congress proposed to impose a uniform tariff of fifty cents on still wines but as reported by telegraph on Tuesday the bill has been continued until next session. Anticipating that it would pass a number of wine importers paid the duty on wines included in the tariff at twenty five cents and now have the dismal satisfaction of knowing that the casks might have remained in bonded warehouses, and that a glut of wine of this quality has been thrown on the market. It is said that some importers will lose from $15 000 to $20 000, the money to pay the duty having been raised at interest and sales at a low figure being the prospect. In one day this class of wines has fallen in value from $52 and $53 to $47 and $48 —S F Call, June 25

The provisions of the currency [illegible] recently passed [illegible] which is now the law of the land [illegible] the national banks [illegible] per cent reserve [illegible] the security [illegible] depositors [illegible] to [illegible] currency afloat. The result of an issue of permanency beyond the ability of the [illegible] to pay is depreciation. The fact that [illegible] depreciate when [illegible] limit [illegible] is not a [illegible] by any means. And the depreciation will [illegible] with the increase of the issue. The currency itself is a debt [illegible] circulating on the credit of the issuer [illegible] the very term of the supposition [illegible] on demand [illegible] debt be increased by the issuance of [illegible] the issue is impaired [illegible] of the issue [illegible] the payable [illegible] This is since circulating [illegible] currency need to be [illegible] In order to compensate for their [illegible] at the same rate of business [illegible] increase [illegible] further depreciation [illegible] thus matters proceed until they end in a final collapse.

With this proposition which it seems to us is clearly established by the above reasoning the most sanguine inflationists ought to admit the dangerous precedent of the extension of the circulation of an irredeemable paper currency. The future necessities for a re-distribution of the legal tender notes will demonstrate the folly of Congress in the attempt to aid the trade interests of the country by such measures or we greatly misinterpret the financial history of the past. The New York Independent speaking of this matter, says "If there be any truth in history or any reality in the elementary laws of exchange, then the expansion of our paper circulation, now depreciated because irredeemable must lead to further depreciation. It is a movement in the wrong direction, unless we propose to cut loose altogether from the world's standard of value and if we do this we shall be out on a sea without bottom or shore."

Oregon Iron in San Francisco.

A few shipments of Oregon Iron in pigs from the Works at Oswego, to the San Francisco market have been noticed by us before. From the Journal of Commerce of that city we learn the result as follows. The Journal says:

It is with sincere pleasure that we note the appearance in our markets again of Pig Iron manufactured on the Pacific Coast. While we had to bring the raw material seventeen thousand miles over the ocean we could have little hope of doing anything beyond satisfying our own wants in the way of Machinery [illegible]. Now however Oregon steps in with Iron of a superior quality and that sells for a higher price in the market than any English or American that we know of. The last importation of one hundred tons sold for $45 $4 higher than the average quality of Eastern or English and $9 higher than some qualities of the latter. This is not the first time that Oregon has entered the market as a producer of Pig Iron but owing to adverse circumstances the industry had for a while to be abandoned. It is now resumed again and there is a company represented in this city by General Allen and will be able to produce about one third of the quantity that is needed to supply the San Francisco market yearly. No doubt in due course of time other companies both in Oregon and California will enter the market the cost of production will be decreased and our iron founders will be able to beat all other competitors in the machinery and agricultural implement trade on the shores of the Pacific. An opportunity will also be afforded for the manufacture of hardware and in fact the impetus given by it to the manufacturing industries of the coast can not at this moment be hardly realized. When we can command iron and coal of good quality and in abundance we shall start in the race of progress as highly favored by nature as Pennsylvania or Great Britain and much more so than New York or New England.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The new crop will be at least two weeks later than usual this year owing to protracted spring rains which have prevented ripening. The old crop is about exhausted there being but little more in the State than will be necessary to keep the mills going till harvest. Comparatively few transactions are occurring as exporters still claim that when the new crop shall be placed in the market prices will show a declining tendency for some time. Hence while growers adhere to present terms no contracts for delivery of the new crop are likely to be made. The Achievement the last foreign bound vessel to load with the old crop is now about ready to receive cargo and has it engaged. Exporters therefore having no present necessity decline to urge the market and are buying but little, though fair lots might be taken at $1 [illegible] cental. Occasionally, however a wagon load or two of choice sells to mills or their agents for an advance of 5 to 10 per cent on exporter's rates. The crop of 1873 has been worked off beyond the expectation of the most sanguine, and the quantity carried over either raw or in flour is insignificant.

FLOUR—Owing to a lack of the raw material a large number of mills in the State have been shut down and will remain closed till after harvest. The stocks of flour here are growing quite small comparatively, and with the probable late harvest, holders are confident of working off present supplies—at least at the rates now current which are $5 [illegible] in jobbing lots for best brands of standard extras $4 [illegible] for good outside brands and $[illegible] for low or grades and superfine.

OATS—The new crop is coming forward but only promises a very large yield though the acreage is estimated to be rather less than more than that of last year. The market which we have for this cereal at present is a most uncertain one and so limited, that shippers are always cautious about handling large lots. The certainty of this crop in our State and its large yield would make it very probable had we cheaper means of transportation and a more extensive demand. Until we find some other market for the surplus than San Francisco, it cannot be expected to command unusually remunerative prices. A few lots have been placed during the week under review, at 45 cents ₩ bushel but rates are rather weaker to-day with no transactions of importance occurring.

BARLEY—The local demand is good and but few lots are offering. We quote best at $1 [illegible] ₩ cwt common and inferior $1 37½ [illegible]

FEED—The stocks are very light and prices well sustained for the season. Bran being quotable at $1[illegible] ₩ ton; shorts, $17@20; middlings, chops etc. [illegible]

HAY—Another few days of sunshine will bring the new crop of Timothy, which is large, into market and prices will probably rule low. Offers at present for baled Timothy are dull at $11@12 50 ₩ ton and $10@11 for loose

POTATOES—The receipts of the new crop are very abundant and prices have dropped to 50@60 cents per bushel. The yield this year will be extensive judging from reports and we shall expect low rates throughout the season

ONIONS—The market is in fair supply and large lots cannot be placed at more than [illegible] cents ₩ lb at which we quote them dull

DRIED FRUIT—The receipts show a decline, but the demand is correspondingly dull and prices do not appreciate under the lighter supply. We quote Apples in kegs at [illegible] in sacks at [illegible]. Plums with pits, inactive at [illegible], pitless 13@15c

BACON—Receipts have not really fallen off and prices are rather better for choice and fancy brands and sugar cured. For good country cured Hams 14@16 cents ₩ lb are regular quotations. [illegible] cents for Shoulders and [illegible] cents for Sides. Some inferior lots are in the market at lower rates

LARD—The present condition of the trade is considered fair, and though receipts of Eastern product are in advance our last quotations are well sustained

BUTTER—All choice lots of fresh roll offering are freely taken at [illegible] cents ₩ lb but inferior [illegible] are plentiful at rates ranging from [illegible] cents

CHEESE—Our state dairies are backward about sending forward supplies and importations are largely in the market. We quote best Oreg [illegible] common [illegible]

EGGS—Large lots are again coming to hand and cannot be easily placed at more than 16 cents ₩ doz though occasionally such as will bear a warranty of freshness will bring [illegible] cents

CHICKENS—The market appears to be well supplied. Best lots of fat Hens quotable at $1 [illegible] doz mixed lots and Spring Chickens $2 [illegible], according to size

FRESH MEATS—The arrivals of cattle are better with but little weakening as yet in prices which will probably go as low as last year. Mutton sheep are scarce at $2 [illegible] ₩ head

HIDES—Each outgoing steamer for San Francisco takes a large shipment, and so far during the season there seems to have been no abatement in the demand. Our quotations of [illegible] ₩ lb for choice dry and [illegible] for green, are firmly sustained. Damaged and badly trimmed must submit to a reduction of 10@25 ₩ cent

WOOL—The market rates for this staple vary more widely this year than ever before [illegible] coming to hand for which no better offer than [illegible] can be secured while choice has been placed during the past few days at [illegible]. We are glad to state that a majority of growers are profiting by the advice of buyers and shippers to clean their wool thoroughly and sort and pack it carefully and neatly before putting it on sale. All are required are ward for the pursuit of this policy and the State is gaining a good reputation for the superior quality of this product. During the week under review the receipts here have been about [illegible] and shipments each boat and train of cars [illegible] large [illegible]. The price at which the staple is held is a good one and growers are having a prosperous year

FRUITS—Cherries are quotable at [illegible] Currants [illegible] Strawberries scarce at [illegible] Raspberries 8@10c
